A LANTERN WON'T HELP

Our fishing editor, despite his wide experience with people, is still finding some frailties in human nature. His latest lamentation is that a great many people who tell him fish stories won't back him up after he has published them. Some of our best people, he declares, deny their own stories when they see them in print. "And this is putting me in a bad light," he said.

And the office girl speaks up to suggest he throw his lantern away when talking with fishermen.

INEZ SHOULD BE EDCOURT

The name of Inez in the early days was Eden. And when Russell Williamson and his Indians win the State basketball crown a third time, we think the Martin county seat should go back to its early name. Anyway, Williamson and his Indian tribe were in their basketball heaven last week end. And all the mountains rang with joy in their second statewide triumph.

Morgan Farmers Seek New Crops To Replace $200,000 Tobacco Cut

Significant Study Made To Find New Sources of Income

Farmers around the county are looking for new sources of income to replace the $200,000 that will be lost by a reduction in tobacco allotments of 213.6 acres in 1954, says County Agent Charlie Dixon.

The tobacco allotment for 1954 for Morgan county has been reduced from 2,672.8 acres to 2,459.2 acres, according to the local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office. This will mean a reduction in tobacco income of almost $200,000.

A.S.C. records show that all allotments of 7 acre or more have been reduced by 91.65 percent. This reduction is required by order of the U. S. Secretary of Agriculture. Farmers voted overwhelmingly to continue the allotment controls and support prices. Under this program the law requires that allotments be reduced when the supply exceeds the amount being consumed as much as it does at present.

The reduction must be applied by each county committee to every allotment in the county except those of 7 acre or less. These small allotments must be reduced too, when the allotment is equal to 25 percent or more of the cropland on the farm or lot. These figures were obtained from Dillard Murphy, chairman of the Morgan County A.S.C. Committee. Mr. Murphy was concerned that some farmers thought the cuts were not being applied to all farms. He pointed out that the cuts were industry-wide and applied to the big farmers and

He was well known in West Liberty and always when he returned to visit his mother attended church and Sunday school at the Christian church.

What can be done to replace this loss of income? The yield per acre probably cannot be reasonably increased significantly. Even if it could, the quality of the tobacco would be lower and less and less of it would be used for that reason. Quality can be improved by the use of higher quality varieties, early setting, shallow cultivation, proper fertilizer balance and avoiding excessive use of nitrogen, late topping, pruning, and allowing the crop to ripen fully before cutting. However, this will not replace a large part of the cut.

Other crops must be used to make up the loss in tobacco income. Pasture improvement and more high quality livestock is one good answer. The beef cow-and-calf plan, dairying and sheep of excellent ways to use the pastures. Strawberries will give almost as high returns per acre as tobacco. Farmers have a ready market for the berries and hundreds of them should put their reduced tobacco acres into strawberries.

Planting of beans with strawberries, the first year is being suggested. About 100 farmers attended a meeting at Salt Lick Wednesday night to discuss the growing and marketing of beans in connection with the strawberry cooperative program. They expect to grow and sell acres or more of beans cooperatively this year. Morgan farmers interested in this crop should see the county agent at once.

Sorghum acreage is expected to take a big jump in the county this year. Jesse M. Williams plans to raise 5 1/2 acres this season. He has bought a new mill.

Farmers who are setting strawberries this year, if they can get the plants, include Arnold Brown of White Oak; Charlie Smith of Dehart; Gardner Patrick, Yocum; Hobert Cassidy, Crockett; Oakley Ferguson, Moon; C. S. Jackson and Harold Rose, Ezel; E. A. Cecil, Murphy; Coy Davis, West Liberty; Lee Skaggs, Crockett, and Jasper Jones, Insko.

Other ideas that have been talked by farmers include mushrooms, goats for cheese, herbs, rhubarb, and tomatoes, said Mr. Dixon.

Insko Farmer Now Has 32 Lambs In New Flock of Sheep

Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Jones of Insko are justifiably proud of the 32 young lambs they have grazing a new pasture field that was seeded and fertilized last spring.

They have excellent demonstration of many good practices, says County Agent Charlie Dixon. For one thing, they bought 10 Western ewes last fall. Nine of them have given birth to 14 lambs and raised them all. The other is expected to lamb soon. This is approximately 1 1/2 lambs saved per ewe. They bought 20 ewes that had been a local flock for several years. Of these, 17 ewes have saved 18 lambs and lost five. Only one other ewe shows definite indications that she might lamb.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones have built a fine set of feeding troughs, hay racks, lambing pens and a creep feeder for the lambs. They are using special rubber bands very effectively to dock the lambs. It is a pleasing sight to see these sheep using the good pasture which is beginning to make its spring growth.

4-H Talent Show Here Friday Will Feature Abilities Of Local People

4-H Stunts, Music, Skills, and Amateur Program Planned

The big 4-H Talent Show which will be held at Morgan County high school Friday evening, March 26, deserves the full support of our people for several reasons. One of these is the opportunity it gives the people of the county to express their musical and dramatic talent.

There will be a session of song, music, stunts and dramatic skills put on by 4-H club boys and girls from Peddlar Gap, Crockett, Lacy Creek, West Liberty, Wrigley, Mordica, Malone, Cannel City, Licking River and Ezel. Following this there will be an Amateur contest that is open to anyone in Morgan county. Cash prizes will be awarded the top three winners.

Another thing to be admired is the fact that the 4-H members are earning the funds to finance their community and county activities for the year by providing the entertainment for those who come. Each club is selling tickets in advance and raising funds for its King and Queen contest. Half of all funds received in this way is kept in the treasury of the local club for their own use.

HYDRO-FRAX TO BE USED IN NEW MORGAN WELL

George Finch and associates who drilled in the new-producing oil well on Lunce Fork southwest of Cannel City four weeks ago, will not shoot the well but have decided to treat the producing strata by the new Hydro-Frax process developed by Dow Chemical Co.

Instead of using explosives, silica particles are forced into the strata under pressure to open pores through the rock strata to let the oil run into the hole.

Tubing placed in the well three weeks ago to pump off the oil and test the well broke after 45 barrels had been pumped out, but new tubing was brought in Sunday and is now being used to replace the old tubing. As soon as it is installed, application of the silica particles according to the Hydro-Frax process will be undertaken.

Dr. Earl Arnett of Floyd county was at Cannel City Monday and he and Dr. J. J. Sherman of Huntington, one of the associates in the company, made the announcement that the Hydro-Frax method would be used.

This will be the first test of the Hydro-Frax process in a well in Morgan county, though it has been used with considerable success in nearby Elliott county in the past six months.

George Finch, driller, said oil rose to within 200 feet of the top of the 2,065-foot well a few days after it was drilled in.

Meanwhile, Jerry Cooper of Caney is moving a rig onto the Edw. Holbrook lease at the head of Day Branch, south of the new well, to commence drilling. Finch and associates also will drill a second well on the tract at Lunce Fork and will move their rig as soon as the new well has been treated by the new process.

MORGAN RANKED 1ST IN EAST KY. BY AG. STATISTICS

Government Report Shows Morgan 1st, And Carter Second

Morgan ranked as the top producing burley tobacco county in northeast Kentucky, with Carter second and Elliott third, in 1951, according to the yearbook of Kentucky Agricultural Statistics released last week by the Kentucky Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Morgan's burley production in 1951, the report states, was 4,517,000 pounds from 2,830 acres for an average of 1,596 pounds per acre. The state average that year was 1,345 pounds per acre. Carter, second high producer in this area, produced a total of 3,423,000 pounds, an average of 1,428 pounds per acre; and Elliott, third high producer, produced 2,364,000 pounds for an average of 1,550 pounds per acre.

The yearbook, giving latest statistics on agriculture by counties, covers crops for 1951 in most instances, but some for 1950 and some for 1949.

Morgan in 1950 had 2,210 farms containing 180,570 acres or an average of 81.7 acres per farm. Of the total acreage 43% or 77,502 acres was in cropland, and 66,599 acres were in pastureland. Corn production in 1951 was 360,000 bushels from 11,600 acres which brought $670,000. Average production of corn in Morgan that year was 31 bushels an acre as compared to 37 1/2 bushels average in the state.

Other farm production in Morgan in 1951 included 170 tons of alfalfa hay, 7,090 tons of clover-timothy hay, 3,090 tons of lespedeza hay.

BURLEY INCOME $2,232,561

Morgan county's cash income from the 1953 burley tobacco crop was $2,232,561.12, which is $33,226.05 more than the 1952 crop brought.

The figures are computed from burley checks clearing through the Commercial Bank here on the 1953 crop for a total of $2,232,561.12. In the preceding year a total of 3,498 checks cleared for a total of $2,179,341.07.

Morgan county's best crop was in 1951-52 when the income was $2,393,256.00.

Value of farm products sold is computed from 1949 figures. Total farm income in 1949 was $2,303,000. Field crops brought in $1,845,000 or 80% of the total. Livestock brought in $416,000 or 18% of the total, dairy products brought in $41,000 or 1.8% of the total, poultry brought in $70,000 or 4.7% of the total. A total of 3,325 head of cattle were sold in 1949. There were only 128 sheep on six farms in 1949 as contrasted to 128 farms that grazed sheep in 1950.

1950 figures on farm mechanization shows Morgan that year had 1,320 homes served by electricity, 145 by telephones, and there were 103 tractors on farms, 15 milking machines, five corn pickers and five pickup hay bayers.

While Morgan's corn production was 5 1/2 bushels per acre under state average in 1951 its tobacco average was 251 pounds per acre above state average. Production of hay was 1.8 ton per acre of alfalfa, 1.6 ton of clover-timothy and 1.3 ton of lespedeza.

Two Morgan Roads Nearing Completion

Codell Construction Company of Winchester and work was begun last September. The road runs up Rockhouse 3.2 miles to the Magoffin line and then 1.1 miles from Magoffin post office. This leaves a gap to Wheelersburg where the road leads to U.S. 460 near Fairview in Magoffin. The road from the Arlie Williams place at the mouth of Coffee Creek is being built up Burkes Fork to Peddlar Gap and down to Mima post office where it intersects with the Smith Creek road. The Licking River Lime-stone Company of West Liberty is the contractor. The entire distance will be 4.16 miles. All culverts are in and the rough grading is done. The road is to be completed by July 22.

FISHING --- NEWS ---

Bernard Whitt, Fishing Editor

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Fairchild returned this week from Florida
where they spent the winter.
Bruce fished every day. Made
Mrs. Fairchild eat fish every meal.
He said he caught more than he could eat and sold fish. Took his own boat and lived in his trailer.
Probably came home with more money than he started with. All who know Bruce realize that when hunting or fishing he combines business with pleasure.

Mrs. Elizabeth Elam said Tuesday that some time ago when they were in Florida that Alonzo came home with about twenty little fish which he said he caught and she fried them all at once.
Mr. Elam said if he ever went fishing he couldn't remember it.

Lynn B. Wells returned last week from a two weeks trip to Florida. When interviewed by the fishing editor in the presence of the Police Judge he admitted having his picture made by a fish which someone else had caught and that he believes most of the pictures brought back by fellows like Blaine Nickell are made by fish other fellows catch.

THE OLD HEN AND HER PECULIAR CHARACTERISTICS

(By R. H. Ferguson, Courier Correspondent at Dingus)

The old hen, like all other fowls of the air, beasts of the field and human beings, possesses
a natural love, which I presume, must be God-given. These all endowed with natural affection which Mother Nature carries an inseparable tie, is so strong that mother will die for her own. But it only applies so far as nature is concerned.

As a reason for this, I was much interested in the love of a mother hen and had boosted her so much—until I watched her manner of treating other little chicks, which were hatched by the same process as her brood.

The only difference—she had nothing to do in hatching them (or hadn't laid her hands on them, see). She seemed to have more love for her own than many professed Christians for each other, but I have differed differently. It came to pass as I different broods, without any respect to their nationality, that all the little fellows, being hungry and as much deserving, one as another, began to examine themselves (and so let him eat), that one old hen, seeing one she hadn't hatched, pecked it with her bill, and intended to kill it. Then I said: "Oh ho! Close communion!"

There is also a divine love
which far surpasses natural love.
To bound it, it is as high as the heaven, as deep as the sea, as broad as the ocean. It is sufficient for me. Do you possess both?

Beneath the surface of the ground
Is where rich veins of gold
are found;
Where men have toiled
from day to day.
In search of what is hid
away.
If we would use our all in quest,
And search our neighbors'
manly breast,
We'd find within the heart,
The soul,
There's something worth
far more than gold.
